

GERMANS SEND FRESH TROOPS INTO BATTLE

The War Today...
By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP War Analyst

WHEN you weigh all the evidence it looks as if Herr Hitler's new offensive against the Russians is aimed primarily at the big-scale mass-slaughter that ever initiated a panoptic mind. Indications are that the all-high is bent on breaking through the Soviet line in the Kursk sector, of bloody memories, and executing deep turning movements which would encircle vast numbers of Reds for massacre. Russian reserves are said to be concentrated in that area thick as Winston Churchill's falling leaves of autumn.

If Hitler thus could cripple the Red forces he would be in a vastly better position to withstand the Allied invasions which are bearing down upon him. It might save him from being caught between two great mill-stones and ground exceeding fine. In this sense his offensive is defensive and calculated to give him a chance to achieve a stalemate in the war.

Of course every commander in chief has as his goal to annihilate, or render impotent, the enemy armies. Hitler's previous offensives naturally have contemplated such destruction, but the matter of immediate concern to him has been the quick conquest of the golden petroleum fields of the lower Caucasus which would keep his oil-poor war-machine in top gear for battle on all fronts.

NOW the Nazi colossus no longer is figuring on his ability to straddle the world. He undoubtedly would voluntarily give up 90 per cent of his ill-gotten gains if the Allies would allow him to keep the other 10 per cent.

We get an indication of the working of the German mind in the Berlin broadcast, which proclaims that a "synchronization of the Axis command with Moscow at the present moment would be a very dangerous experiment." In other words, the Nazis are worried about an Anglo-American invasion of the continent while their drive against the Russians is in full swing.

As a matter of fact, it was a very daring thing for Hitler to begin his offensive while the invasion threat was so strong. Indeed the lateness of the commencement of his attack undoubtedly was due to his inability to guess just what was in the wind. Since he finally took the plunge it would seem that he must have been impelled by one of two things:

1. Decision that the Allies would not invade western France in the near future and thus place him between the mill stones. This would be his greatest menace.
2. Confidence that he could counter an Allied invasion attempt while the Russians are in full swing.

YANKS GAIN BY LAND AND SEA IN SOLOMONS

PRESSING THE SOUTHWEST Pacific offensive, U. S. forces are advancing in the hard-fought Solomons campaign. Marines, using infiltration tactics, continued their drive against the Munda Bay area from their Viru harbor starting point (arrow). The Jap Munda base also was imperiled by the defeat of Jap ships by our light fleet in Kula Bay from which waters the enemy vessels withdrew. Our troops on Rendova island have consolidated their positions and with reinforcements have checked a Jap air offensive. Our objective, the big Jap base at Rabaul, is seen in the inset.

Subsidies Win As Congress Calls For Summer Recess

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 9.—Free for the first long recess of the war, the 78th Congress left today to talk things over with the voters back home after a session hectic in its discussion of domestic issues but historic in its unity on mustering the nation's resources for victory.

Work-worn and weary, with tempers short and nerves taut, the lawmakers called time out after six busy months of trying to mesh the American civilian economy with the ever-mounting demands for more and more planes and ships, more and more men and munitions.

In the closing hours, the administration won its major victory of the year, with the senate abandoning its battle for a ban against use of subsidies to carry out President Roosevelt's plan for rolling back retail food prices.

RAF RESUMES GERMAN RAIDS

119th Attack Carried Out On Cologne; Targets In France Blasted

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, July 9.—The RAF, returning to the assault on Germany after a four-night lull in the Allied aerial offensive, made a heavy attack on the Rhineland industrial center of Cologne last night, the air ministry announced today.

Eight bombers were lost in the raid, the announcement said.

Mines also were laid in enemy waters during the night and British fighters on intruder patrols simultaneously attacked enemy airfields and railway targets in France and northwest Germany. Three German minesweepers were reported damaged in sweeps along the French coast.

The heavy British bombers had scarcely returned from their night foray over Germany when formations of Allied fighters swept out across the channel in the direction of northern France to continue the offensive by daylight.

Britain, meanwhile, passed a raid-free night.

The attack on Cologne was the 119th on that bomb-battered city, target of the RAF's first great 1,000-bomber raid a year ago. The big Rhineland industrial center had been attacked on June 28 and again last Saturday night.

A Berlin broadcast recorded by The Associated Press, following the usual line taken by Nazi propagandists, described last night's assault on Cologne as a "terror raid" directed against residential areas. The broadcast indicated that other targets in the Rhineland were hit in addition to Cologne, however.

The RAF night raiders were favored by good weather, the skies clearing last evening after a day of thunderstorms. Despite unfavorable conditions yesterday RAF typhoons and Mustangs carried out offensive patrols over northern France and the low countries. The planes were reported to have destroyed one German aircraft and damaged several locomotives. One RAF plane was listed as lost in these sallies.

Lisbon Draftees TAKEN TO AKRON

LISBON, July 9.—The contingent of draftees comprising the July draft call from the Lisbon district went to Akron today for physical examinations. The group of 80 included 24 volunteers. The remaining number were 19-year-old and married men without children.

Two conscientious objectors failed to report for examination.

Acting corporals for the group were Robert Charles Sensenbaugh and Charles Paul McCauley of East Palestine and Ralph Rose of Lisbon.

GALA PARADE TO HIGHLIGHT LEGION EVENT

Salem Host This Weekend To American Legion 10th District Convention

5 BANDS, OCD UNITS IN PARADE LINEUP

Program at Stadium Will Follow; Convention Opens Saturday

Five bands and one drum corps will be included in the parade at 4 p. m. Sunday which will be one of the big events of the Tenth district convention of the American Legion, to be held in Salem Saturday and Sunday.

That was the assurance given the convention committee of Charles H. Carey post when it met last night to complete arrangements for the entertainment of Legionnaires and their wives from nine counties in the district.

The musical organizations which will provide music for the marchers are the High School and the Old Timers bands of Salem, Fairmount Children's Home band, the All service men who are home on furlough are invited to march in the American Legion's district convention parade at 4 p. m. Sunday.

These men will form unit No. 4 and they are requested to assemble at Acton st. and S. Broadway, where they will fall into line as the parade moves.

Legion band and Junior band of Canton, and the Alliance Legion drum corps

Marching units will include most of the Civilian Defense organizations, the Legionnaires, Veterans of Foreign Wars, service men of the present war home on furlough. A WAAC mobile unit, the county's 10 and 8 boxer, several saddle horses and other features also will be included.

Public Program At Stadium

The parade will be over a route through the downtown streets, winding up at Reilly stadium where public ceremonies will include an address by Martin V. Coffey of Middletown, state commander of the Legion.

Advancing of the Legion's district corps will open this program and John W. Coleman, county clerk, will lead the audience in singing America. Invocation will be given by Rev. Carl Asmus, Methodist pastor and a veteran of the first World war. The Canton Legion band and the Fairmount band will play The Star Spangled Banner to conclude the exercises.

Delegates, many accompanied by their wives, will begin arriving in the city Saturday afternoon and at

STEUBENVILLE HIT BY WATER FAMINE

Supply Low After Rains Wash Out Pump Station Supply Lines

STEUBENVILLE, July 9.—Most of the 35,000 residents of this Ohio river city still were deprived of a normal water supply today after rains washed out supply lines from the pumping station to the filtration plant.

Consumers in the west end of the city experienced no interruption in service but the business section and most residential areas still awaited completion of emergency repairs.

Service Director Joseph Lopresto said he hoped to have service restored before tomorrow.

The death toll of Ohio storms rose to four with identification of the body of Mrs. Thomas McNeil, 37, of nearby Aikanna. Missing since Wednesday, her body was recovered from the Ohio river near Belleaire yesterday. Charles McNeil, 17, son of the flood victim, said he last saw his mother clinging to a log after surging waters demolished their home.

Still missing was Andrew Thompson, 56, also believed to have perished when his home was washed away.

Check Motorists ON EVASION OF TAX

COLUMBUS, July 9.—Nearly 6,500 motorists in the Columbus and Youngstown areas have been directed by federal agents to purchase the new 45 Use Tax stamp, and ration boards in Cleveland, Toledo and Cincinnati have been asked to order gasoline stations to refuse to service cars lacking the yellow stickers.

John A. Vetter, assistant chief of the field division, internal revenue office here, said some 5,000 summonses issued in the Columbus district bore no fine but required motorists to buy a stamp or show cause why it was not displayed properly. They have been required since July 1.

An official at the Cincinnati internal revenue office indicated stern measures might be taken towards delinquents.

Government Will Loan Lisbon Fire Apparatus

LISBON, July 9.—Mayor G. C. Rauch today signed a contract with Col. A. D. Patterson of Cleveland, assistant regional director in charge of civilian protection, for a loan by the government of a 500-gallon trailer pump and a large quantity of fire-fighting equipment.

DOOM COMES TO U-BOAT FROM SKY

Americans Clamp Pincers On Enemy-Held Air Base

(By Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, July 9.—Only three miles from Munda, United States invaders are probing Japanese defenses of that New Georgia island air base, and over both the Solomons and New Guinea Allied planes have dealt new blows with nearly 100 tons of bombs, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters reported today.

On the other hand, the hard hit Japanese air force, having lost nearly 200 planes over the Solomons within a week, has diminished the weight of its punches.

The pincers which American Marines and soldiers began applying on Munda July 5 by landing both above and east of it pressed nearest at Eleo, on the east, where advanced patrols clashed Thursday with Japanese and defeated them. It was a push obviously in advance while the main forces, which stormed ashore above Munda at Rice anchorage and east of it at Zanana consolidate positions. The entrenched Japanese at Munda are believed to be in considerable strength, prepared to offer a bloody defense.

Above New Georgia on Kolombangara island, Munda's big supply depot at Vila was fired and holed by 21 tons of high explosives unloaded by dauntless divebombers and Avenger torpedo bombers. Corsairs protected the raiders.

Further up the Solomons, the Kahili airdrome from which the Japanese might offer Munda's defenders aerial support, was raided at the southern tip of Bougainville island by big American Liberators Thursday night. Their 23 tons of bombs started fires. One Liberator didn't get back.

On northeastern New Guinea, where Australian and American planes are moving toward the enemy base of Salamaua, the Allied planes continued to blast a path through the jungle with their bombs.

Alliance Curfew Measure Awaits Mayor's Signature

ALLIANCE, July 9.—Awaiting the signature of Mayor Floyd H. Senn is an ordinance setting a 10 p. m. curfew for boys and girls under 16.

City council yesterday streamlined a curfew measure passed in 1938 in an effort to curb juvenile delinquency.

Meat Goes to War

CHICAGO, July 9.—The War Meat board, formulating a program designed to ease the nation's beef scarcity, says the country's armed forces last week received sufficient beef supplies—for the first time since the start of the current shortage last January.

The board, Chairman Harry E. Reed said, will make recommendations next week to Government agencies on measures intended to move cattle from ranges and farms into markets and thus boost beef supplies.

Raise Mayor's Salary

EAST PALESTINE, July 9.—Mayor Walter A. Hunston prepared today to approve councilmanic legislation increasing from $900 to $1,250 the mayor's annual salary, effective Jan. 1, 1944.

Hunston, a Republican, who is serving his third term, is unopposed to renomination at the Aug. 10 primary.

NAZIS DRIVE WEDGE INTO SOVIET LINES

Russians Admit Enemy Gains In Vicinity Of Belgorod

REGAIN GROUND IN NORTHERN SECTION

Moscow Says 90,000 German Troops Fail to Pierce One Line

(By Associated Press)

MOSCOW, July 9.—The battle of the Kursk salient mounted in intensity today as the Germans threw in fresh troops and new tanks to exploit a wedge in Russian defenses near Belgorod and batter the unyielding northern section of the Soviet line.

Red Star, Red army organ, reported the powerful Nazi tank columns had changed the direction of their attack several times in the Orei-Kursk sector seeking a weak point in deep Russian positions.

In that northern section of the fiercely-blasting 200-mile battle line, the Russians said their troops regained lost ground in a succession of counter-attacks yesterday while holding firm against a mighty stab by some 90,000 Nazi troops against one narrow area. The Pravda correspondent said that, protected by swarms of aircraft, the Germans threw 250 tanks against the Russians. But not a single one got through, he said.

Air Attacks Fail

Dispatches from the front declared the German air force had failed in all its attempts to win supremacy over the battlefield. One batch of Russian pilots was said to have shot down 110 German planes during 81 dog-fights throughout the day.

A Moscow communique reported an additional 304 German tanks were destroyed or damaged in yesterday's fighting and 161 planes were shot down, raising the four-day enemy losses to 1,843 tanks and 810 planes. Nazi casualties were reported as at least 35,000.

(A Berlin broadcast recorded by The Associated Press asserted 900 Red army planes had been knocked down since the offensive started Monday morning, 80 of them yesterday. German troops, the report said, "have gained more ground in the Belgorod area.")

Despite the enormity of the German effort to pinch off the Kursk bulge by drives from the north and the south, the situation of the defending Russian forces was regarded here as generally unchanged.

The German gain in the Belgorod sector, the fourth reported by the Russians in as many days, was attained only after day-long fighting in which the Soviet troops inflicted heavy losses and hurled back enemy assault columns on several occasions.

German propaganda accounts broadcast from Berlin told of "secret new weapons" in use in these great tank battles, one a "projector" artillery weapon whose fire was declared capable of leveling a forest. A "super tiger" tank, superior to the 60-ton Mark IV, also was said to be in action.)

Young Criminals Die In Electric Chair

OSSINING, N. Y., July 9.—Maintaining a frozen faced silence, Edward Haight, 17, the youngest criminal ever electrocuted in New York state, died last night in Sing Sing's electric chair with two youths almost as young.

Haight was convicted of the attack-slaying of Helen Lynch, 7, and her sister, Margaret, 8, in Bedford Village, N. Y., last September.

In sharp contrast with their dejection earlier in the day, Benitez de Jesus, 19, and William Diaz, 18, convicted of the "mugging" slaying in Harlem last October of Pvt. Edwin Berkowitz, Hackensack, N. J., entered the death chamber with the same composure as Haight.

Army Adopts New Wing Insignia for Airplanes

WASHINGTON, July 9.—A new airplane wing insignia has been ordered for all Army planes.

The War department announced today the new insignia consists of a white star on a circular field of blue, a white rectangle attached horizontally at both right and left of the field, and a red border enclosing the entire device.

The department said that the new insignia was developed because the present device can be confused with Japan's red dot and Germany's black cross on a wider white cross, when seen from a distance.

LAGGING WAR PRODUCTION

The repeated Washington slander that war production is lagging because the American people are over-confident and complacent does not make sense. Now that WPB Chairman Nelson has chimed in with the complaint previously made by Undersecretary of War Patterson and Lieut. Gen. Somervell, it is evident that the misunderstanding is becoming serious. Mr. Nelson, at least, should know better.

Lagging war production, as shown in statistics, is not the result of complacency, over-confidence, or as Gen. Somervell calls it, "the sedative effect" of good news. These may be minor contributory causes, but to speak of them as major causes is to insult the population. Administration spokesmen made this error before, when they insinuated that popular failure to take the war seriously after Pearl Harbor was to blame for the government's inability to organize the war effort. In other words, while Washington was indulging its characteristic weakness for blaming the people, the people were blaming Washington for not providing better leadership.

War production has lagged statistically in some fields because of cut-backs and revisions in war contracts. It has lagged statistically because some of the goals arbitrarily established at the outset were not adjusted to actual conditions. It has lagged statistically because of continued confusion in Washington, nerve center of the war effort.

There may be many other reasons for failure to meet certain production goals, all of which need to be taken into account. But any government spokesman who lends the impression that nothing is to blame but war workers easing up on the job automatically qualifies himself as a member of the not too exclusive club of public administrators who don't know what they're talking about.

LEGISLATIVE DIGNITY

The low level bombing and strafing being carried on by congress at the expense of New Deal organizations, doctrines and expediencies may prove to be one of the decisive actions of World War II. Apparently, the legislators have taken seriously the admonition that a good attack is the best defense.

Their legislative dignity has been threatened throughout the last decade of increasing executive power. Congress sank at one time to the level of a confirming agency—a rubber stamp for government by executive order. When war broke out, with its emphasis on executive action, the future of congress looked almost hopeless.

It is too soon to guess what may come of the resurgence of legislative authority that has upset so many administrative practices the last few weeks; some fear it may lack leadership and lead to obstructionism. But within the classic theory of the balance of power which was to stabilize the republic, legislative dignity is in process of restoration. It has been a long time since anyone referred to congress as a rubber stamp.

Perhaps the most overt sign of what has happened is the arrangement for a congressional recess, under which congress may be reconvened by decision of the vice president, the speaker of the house, the majority leaders, or even the minority leaders. The chief executive, who ordinarily would have authority to reconvene congress, has been by-passed by an arrangement that makes congress, itself, responsible for the decision.

FORGET THE 45 BILLION

Additional taxation to produce more revenue is the important unfinished business of the 78th congress. When congress convenes after the recess, the house ways and means committee will go to work in earnest to bring taxation up to date.

This is the year of the 45 billion dollar "inflationary gap" that treasury officials have talked about so much it has become a kind of copyrighted slogan. Theoretically, beginning July 1, first day of the 1943-44 fiscal year, excess purchasing power of that amount began to accumulate in the national pocketbook.

Probably no other arbitrary assumption in Washington has annoyed citizens more than the assumption that they had excess purchasing power, particularly in cases where their only share in the war boom is a highly increased cost of living. It would clear the air at the outset of deliberations on additional taxes if the 45 billion fallacy, which is hopelessly out of date now anyway, were to be abandoned and never heard of again.

Tax rates have risen past the place where the presence of blood in the turnips can be assumed. It must be proved. Whatever additional taxes are going to be levied must be selective, based on ability to pay, not on some palpably nonsensical statistic turned out by a slide rule operator in Washington.

IT CAN HAPPEN HERE, TOO

First step in a general overhauling of government agencies in Great Britain, reports The Associated Press, is the discharge of 3,000 government employees. This was ordered by a cabinet committee.

It is one British move that won't be copy-catted by Washington. The usual assumption that if the British can do Americans can do it twice that big won't be found nearly so tempting as it has been with food subsidies and Beveridge plans.

There is something to be learned from the British on the subject of weeding out bureaucratic personnel, however. Many more than 3,000 jobholders have been shaken off the payroll by the recent explosions in congress, but most of them will get back on immediately unless they are ordered to stay off permanently, which seems to be the important thing about the British housecleaning.

THE STARS SAY :

For Saturday, July 10

SATURN's day holds pledges of substantial and enduring rewards for service well rendered, fidelity to duty and responsibilities, together with determined and patient effort to achieve sensible ends. Industry and application are virtues bringing their own rewards. If the way seems blocked in one direction, there should be hearty and solid encouragement from friends, intimates and those in influential positions. The personal element and finer equipment of mind and heart may prove attractive for desired attention and support in business or purely private ambitions or relations.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may expect a year of solid growth and advancement, not only through their own faithful and sound efforts and abilities, but through their singular personal charm, their superior mental and perhaps spiritual qualities. Tact, courtesy and personality should attract in business as well as in romantic appeal. Grace and culture are factors for enduring success and happiness.

A child born on this day may have much stability of character, sound mentality and capabilities, with the subtle attractions of a gracious personality and spiritual force to win friends and supporters of worth.

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

Army Rations Have Grown Up

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

I HAVE JUST been shown the consummation of the quarter-master's dream. I think I first heard about this dream right after the Spanish-American War when on our front porch one night

Dr. Clendenning will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through this column.

The colonel of a cavalry regiment, an officers in the Quartermaster Corps, and a medical officer of the Army were talking about the great advantage of having a concentrated ration for soldiers. The idea from the point of tactics is that a unit of troops, which may range numerically from a company to a division, is to go forward either for reconnaissance or for offensive operations. They may be gone for 24 hours to a week. The men are doing hard work, so they have to be fed and a lumbering camp kitchen is very much in the way on occasions of this kind.

Now if each man could be supplied with a fairly light package containing rations for one week, they could get about their business in rapid time without the discomfort of hunger until the camp kitchen had caught up with them. That has been the quartermaster's dream.

Early Experiments Unsuccessful
It was attempted I think in practice shortly after the Spanish American War with some concentrated rations that were given to a troop of cavalry which was sent to a seclude hollow in the hills, and guarded. It was well that they were guarded because the men after 48 hours on the concentrated rations were ready to commit mayhem to get out.

Modern processing has solved the problem for practical purposes. The particular processing is dehydration, plus the ability to add concentrated vitamins to concentrated foods. Vitamin-containing foods in general are somewhat bulky. Perhaps Nature made that provision in order to make them attractive. In other words, so that they would be filling. At any rate with these two ideas of dehydration and reinforcement, a concentrated ration has been provided.

I am not allowed to tell what is in it, but I can say that it is a small package in tin. Different packages have different contents

RIDGEWOOD DEED

Editor, The News:
In reference to a statement by Solicitor Reese as published in The Salem News of July 7, that Ridgewood drive had never been deeded to the city by W. W. Luce, I would like to state some facts.

W. W. Luce and H. J. Hixenbaugh own the south half of this street and I believe R. W. Hack owns the north half. Mr. Hixenbaugh and I have been willing to deed this land to the city for ten to twelve years, and I personally have appeared before council and begged them to have the necessary papers drawn up for us to sign. So far nothing has been done.

Solicitor Reese has admitted to me that we own the land and could close the street if we so desired. We are anxious to get this matter settled as there is more than $30 delinquent tax charged against us. Now for the last time, I am asking that this matter be attended to within 30 days. After that time we will offer this land to the highest bidder.

WARNING TO PARENTS

Editor, The News:
Will you kindly print the following as a warning to parents of boys and as a preventive of serious accidents caused by careless boys?

To the parents of boys with air rifles or bee-bee guns:
If you must let your child have these guns, please see to it that he uses them intelligently. The following incident took place Tuesday.

Several small boys were playing in the hollow off Franklin ave. when three larger boys with some kind of guns delighted in shooting at and hitting the small boys and preventing them from coming home.

One small boy was hit in the ear, another grazed on the face, fortunately not seriously, but it might have meant loss of an eye or ear injury. Two of the large boys names are known.

Let this be a warning so as to prevent serious trouble in the future. A MOTHER.

which are labelled "K", "M", etc. M contains the meat, but the only way to get in the meat is to get in the K can first because the key to the meat can is in the K can. In the K can are quick energy foods—biscuits roughage, hard candy reinforced with vitamins, a little tin of coffee and some dried lemon juice. When he has emptied the can, the soldier can put a fire under it and brew himself some coffee. He can also get at the dried meat.

Asphalt Food Packages
Another wonderful stunt is a large package which is sealed with asphalt and put in a still larger one with an air space between. The larger one is also sealed with asphalt. These can be thrown in the water from a boat at the time of a shore landing, will float on the beach and will provide several good meals after the exhausting effort of getting through a heavy surf on a beach.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
W. R.: What are the chances of getting completely cured of a pyelitis infection in a child five years old with a double kidney? Will a person with this condition have to be more cautious in daily life than a normal person?

Answer: Horseshoe kidneys are more liable to infection, pyelitis, stone, etc., than normal kidneys. While such conditions may be cleared up, they tend to recur from time to time. In regulating the life of such a person, the most important precaution is to have a regular examination of the urine in order to catch anything before it gets a head start.

Parachute Signals For Invasion Use Made at Ravenna

RAVENNA, July 9. — Parachute signal flares may be used to tip off the anti-Axis underground in Europe when and where American and United Nations landing operations will take place, officials at the Ravenna Ordnance center disclosed here today.

The aircraft signal parachute drops at a rate of approximately 6 feet a second and burns about 30 seconds with a red light of 20,000 candlepower, they added.

Longer messages may be flashed by using freely falling stars, star clusters or star chains in various color combinations.

The Ordnance department, Army Service Forces, is supplying our invasion armies in the British Isles, North Africa and the Pacific with a wide variety of parachute flares and photoflash bombs, it was asserted.

In addition to signaling, they are designed to provide illumination for reconnaissance, observations, bombardment and photography and may also be used for airplane and parachute troop landings.

Col. J. K. Clement, commanding the Ravenna Ordnance center, said the flares which the army ordnance supplies the air forces have certain characteristics in common.

All flares produce a white or yellowish light of high intensity for an appreciable length of time, ranging from 60,000 candlepower for a minute to 1,000,000 candlepower for 3.5 minutes or longer.

All aircraft flares are parachute-supported to retard their speed for illumination purposes.

THROUGH FIRE AND WATER YANKS TAKE OBJECTIVES

FIRE AND WATER are no insurmountable obstacles to American soldiers. In fact, such tests are part of the training of the Third Engineer Amphibian Brigade at Camp Gordon Johnson, Fla., where soldiers are pictured above learning how to swim through water covered with blazing oil. A technique of underwater swimming and splash surfacing for air has been developed and under battle conditions has helped to reduce casualties considerably. This is an Army Signal Corps photo. Marines Push Japs Over 130-Foot Cliff

BY J. NORMAN LODGE
WITH AMERICAN INVASION FORCES IN NEW GEORGIA, July 5.—(Delayed)—United States Marines borrowed a page from the bloody Japanese notebook marked "Singapore" to capture strategic Viru harbor.

The Marines sprang a rear attack on Japanese troops around the harbor area after four days of a circuitous, slogging march through the jungles to reach their objective.

Then screaming leathernecks drove undetermined numbers of the enemy off a 130-foot cliff into the sea and others fleeing into the jungle.

That's how they made the harbor safe for the New Georgia invasion.

In many respects, Uncle Sam's fighters wrote perhaps the most spectacular page in the history of the South Pacific theater.

The captain leading the marine force admitted that had he known the difficulties he never would have attempted the coup.

He also disclosed the Marines spearheaded the direct invasion of New Georgia by landing at Segi June 20 and remained inactive until the full Central Solomons offensive got under way a week later.

They were charged with the responsibility of the attack on Viru harbor from the rear and by this move surprised the defending Japanese, who were prepared for a frontal attack.

Horse Breeding Slow

ITHACA, N. Y. — OPA restrictions on driving have contributed to the revival of horse-drawn travel, but prices for Old Dobbin are not high enough to induce farmers to breed them. Officials of the college of agriculture at Cornell university say it still is more profitable to produce beef, pork and milk cows than to raise colts.

Trapshoot Event Set for Weekend

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, July 9 — Some of the stars will be missing, the program has been slashed about 50 per cent, and travel restrictions will cut the field—but Ohio's 57th annual trapshooting champions will be held Saturday and Sunday at Columbus Gun club.

Although some ammunition will be available on the grounds, all marksmen have been warned to "bring your own shells if you want to be certain of going through all the races." Shooters with excess supplies of the rapidly-dwindling ammunition have been requested to bring along a few extra shells to aid those who have none.

Last year the program called for 600 targets, 200 at 16 yards for the state championship, 200 at 16 yards for the class titles, 100 doubles, and 100 at handicaps. This year the class championships and the 16-yard titles will be decided on the same targets, over the 400-clay route—a saving of 300 shells and 300 targets for each entrant.

The usual 50-pair doubles race has been slashed to 25 pairs, but the 100-target handicap race remains the same, giving the field 250 targets instead of the usual 600. That saves each marksman 14 boxes of shells.

Thundering Herd On Western Plains Ready for Market

COTTONWOOD FALLS, Kas., July 9—There's a lot of beef coming in from the hills and plains. The thundering herd is on the march again; millions of pounds of beef from the great grass ranges is ready to market.

The ranges are beginning to dry up—little later this year because of the heavy rains during the grazing season. Now the ranchers face the choice of selling their big herds or holding them and feeding expensive scarce grains.

Some associated with the cattle industry believe the beef famine will be broken with a rush of grass-fed beef in the next two weeks. Clint Squires, Beaumont, Tex., rancher, says "We have had more rain this summer than in any season for several years. The grass is excellent and the cattle are making good gains. The season has arrived when the grass cures and the cattle put on finish. The aged stuff soon will be in the right kind of flesh to start for market."

The blue stem pastures of eastern Kansas and the rugged Osage country of northern Oklahoma are filled to capacity with grazing cattle—some 750,000 head.

The cattle raiser will get a higher price than a year ago. Grass-fed steers at the Kansas City stockyards yesterday were $11 to $13.50 a hundred pounds, as compared with $9.75 to $12.75 a year ago.

CONGRESS CALLS SUMMER RECESS

Administration Wins Victory as Senate Drops Subsidy Fight

sought by President Roosevelt, what to do about postwar planning and foreign policy.

Here are some of the results of its work thus far:

1. A pay-as-you-go tax collection bill.
2. A punishment-dealing anti-strike measure.
3. Record smashing appropriations of more than $114,000,000,000.
4. A ban against President Roosevelt's $25,000-after-tax limitation on earned income.
5. Abolition of the National Youth Administration (NYA) and the National Resources Planning board (NRPB).
6. Curtailment of the Office of War Information's (OWI) domestic activities.
7. Continuation of the Lend-Lease act.
8. Extension of the administration's power to enter into reciprocal trade treaties with other countries.
9. A boost in the national debt to $210,000,000,000.
10. Ultimate liquidation of the Federal Crop Insurance program.
11. A statute subjecting war brokers to renegotiation of "excessive" profits.

One Tough Job

It was a job known to every housewife—the problem of trying to make ends meet—that gave Congress its toughest assignment, and out of the struggle came a measure to put the nation's taxpaying millions on a pay-as-you-go basis by imposing a 20 per cent withholding levy on wages and salaries.

Unprecedented military appropriations were whisked through both houses by overwhelming votes, but on some other questions there developed a tug-of-war between Congress and the President, with the lawmakers demonstrating determination to gain greater control over administration agencies.

Mr. Roosevelt suffered the sternest rebuff in his 11 years as chief executive when Congress, its temper aroused by stoppage of work in the coal mines, overrode his veto of a far-reaching anti-strike bill.

The recess began without an extension of the six-year-old bituminous coal act under which the administration sought to regulate the soft coal industry. The act expires Aug. 23.

Stop Tank Production

TOLEDO, July 9—Production at the Toledo Tank depot, one of the nation's leading tank arsenals, has so far outstripped expectations and needs that the plant will be closed Aug. 1, some 1,200 employees were informed. The depot is owned by Electric Auto-Lite Co.

DEATHS

MRS. TRYPHOSIA M. KALE
Mrs. Tryphosia M. Kale, 89, died at 8 p. m. Thursday at the Hallie Roessler and Addie Bonsall residence on the Ellsworth rd., where she had lived for the past six years. She had been ill four months.

The daughter of Barbara and Jacob Gilbert, she was born in Columbiana county, Sept. 15, 1854. She was married in 1879 at which time she made her home in Salem. Her husband, Harman Kale, a prominent hardware merchant, preceded her in death in 1922. A daughter, Florence, died in 1917. She was a life-long member of the Christian church.

Surviving are several nieces and nephews. Funeral service will be held at 2:30 p. m. Sunday at the Arbaugh-Pearce funeral home in charge of Rev. C. F. Evans. Burial will be in Grandview cemetery.

Friends may call Saturday evening at the funeral home.

F. ALTON POPE

Funeral service was held in Cleveland today for F. Alton Pope, 78, president of the Cleveland Liner Mfg. Co., and one-time secretary-treasurer of the old Buckeye Engine Co., here, who died Tuesday in Lakeside hospital.

Mr. Pope was a member of an early Cleveland family. His father, Edward C. Pope, was active with the iron ore interests, and the lake freighter E. C. Pope, is named for him.

Surviving Mr. Pope are his son, Ervin C. Pope, vice-president of the manufacturing company; three sisters, Mrs. Charles Stanley of Wellesley Hills, Mass., Mrs. Mulford Wade of Bronxville, N. Y., and Mrs. Homer H. Johnson of Cleveland, and two grandchildren, Alton R. and Jane Louise Pope.

JOHN F. ORMSBY

Funeral service was held Wednesday at the Indianapolis Westside Gospel Tabernacle for John F. Ormsby, 89, formerly of Salem, who died at his home in Indianapolis Monday afternoon.

Surviving are his wife, Harriet; five daughters, Mrs. R. F. Newman, Mrs. John Forney, Mrs. Fred L. Baer, Mrs. John Baer and M. S. John Stroud; two sons, Charles F. and Harry L. Ormsby and two stepchildren, Mrs. Thomas Ratican and Lorine Smith.

Must File Meat Reports

COLUMBUS, July 9—Ohio's 238 slaughterers and 782 butchers who hold permits to slaughter livestock for the sale of meat must submit evidence by next Thursday to substantiate the amount of livestock killed during the period on which their quota is based, State Meat Marketing Supervisor Clifford G. Pulvermacher said today.

Failure to comply, he said, may lead to revocation of permits.

3 FIREMEN KILLED IN WALL COLLAPSE

Three Others Buried Beneath Debris of Chicago Building

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO, July 9—Fire department officials today said three firemen were dead and three others were believed to have lost their lives when the roof and front wall of the top floor of a burning four-story building, weakened by a pre-arranged fire, caved in, trapping nine firemen under tons of debris.

Fire Marshall Michael J. Corrigan said the three firemen still alive, but in weakened condition, were pinned under tons of debris on a first floor stairway.

Corrigan said firemen killed in the collapse of the roof and wall were Capt. Arthur Barcal, Capt. Henry Worthman and Fireman Harry Winel. Rescuers, after several hours work, were unsuccessful in contacting three of the nine buried.

Four firemen suffered injuries, one serious, in the accident.

A new fire broke out in the building, housing the Winler S. Snow light fixture plant and located on the near north side, today after a blaze last night caused an estimated $1,000 damage.

After the roof of the building fell, firemen were hampered in rescue work by the weakened condition of the west wall of the structure.

still engaged with Russia. In that case his offensive on the eastern front would be in the nature of a bold invitation to Uncle Sam and John Bull to attack and be damaged.

THE first explanation looks like the more reasonable. Hitler has got beyond the stage of braggadocio and is fighting for survival. So it's likely that the fuhrer's offensive is aimed primarily at crippling the Reds for the sake of ensuring something like his present status rather than to acquire the resources which he needs so badly for further aggression. All he asks of fate is that he be permitted to hang on.

There probably is a double reason for Hitler's drive. Not only does he want to protect himself against getting caught between the Red and the Anglo-American armies, but he has to consider the possibility of an American-British invasion up through the Balkans, perhaps with Turkey in the Allied camp at long last.

NOTICE
On July 7, I had a notice published that I would not be responsible for any debts incurred by anyone but myself which I hereby retract.

PARADE HIGHLIGHT OF LEGION CONCLAVE

8 that evening Sam King of Lisbon will have charge of the service officers school at the Legion home.

Those who arrive Sunday morning will register at the Memorial building, where all sessions that day will be held. Committee meetings will occupy the morning hours and in the afternoon reports will be submitted and officers elected.

Officers Will Be Named
District officers serve for two years, this being the election year. Atty. J. Lee Pickering of Minerva is district commander, C. W. Whittemyer of Canton vice commander, and Sam Adams of Wells-ville district adjutant. Whittemyer is a candidate for commander and is not expected to have any opposition.

Clarence "Dutch" Wetzel of Lisbon is the leading candidate for vice commander.

Milton H. Critchfield, commander of the Salem post, will open the Sunday afternoon session and District Commander Pickering will preside. Mayor R. R. Johnson is scheduled to give the city's welcome to the visiting Legionnaires.

On Jan. 1, 1943, there was 25 million A ration books for passenger cars in the hands of consumers, 6,400,000 of the B books and 3,600,000 C books.

Dies Waiting for Leave

LOS ANGELES, Cal.—The mills of the gods grind slowly, but sometimes city councils grind even more slowly. Jasper Cross, a city employee, applied on March 18 for a leave of absence. When finally the council, along in June, acted on the application, they found Cross had been dead since April 9.

Herbert Marshall Draws A Laugh As He Draws Cartoons

BY CHIP ROYAL
AP Feature Writer

NEW YORK—Herbert Marshall's secret is out. He gets that deep-throated musical ring in his voice by always going to bed with a laugh. It seems that Marshall is a bug on cartoons. Ever since his college days at St. Mary's, Harlow, England, he has spent all his spare time illustrating various characters he has met.

"I don't know a better way to get a lift, if you are depressed, than to take a pencil or crayon and draw," says the soft-spoken movie star.

Collects Cartoons

Next to drawing cartoons, Marshall prefers collecting them and his California home is full of the best he can find in British and American magazines. When he finds one that particularly impresses him, he writes to the artist and tries to buy it.

"They invariably refuse to take any money for the cartoons," smiled Marshall, "and I get another original for my collection."

"My bedroom walls are covered with the work of such great artists as George Price, Charles Addams, David Low, Hank Barrow, Bruce Russell, Rollin Kirby and Ding Darling. I can always depend on them for a laugh when I need one."

Marshall stopped on Broadway en route to Hollywood from a visit to Canada to help the Canadian Victory loan drive.

Marshall is hoping that he won't have to make any war pictures.

"I am not against them, you know," he said, "but I had enough of it in 1915." (He was severely wounded and lost a leg in the battle of Arras, and was cited for bravery.)

War Pictures

"I'm not trying to tell Hollywood what to do," he continued, "but I think that about six per cent of the total output of the studios should be war pictures."

"That would be enough to give a good nudge to persons letting down on war efforts. I think 'Bataan' is a good example of that, and the first good war picture we have had."

After he finishes "Faculty Row" for Metro, Marshall is hoping to get away from his usual run of parts.

Wants Heavy Work

"I don't believe that an actor should have too much to say about the parts he plays," he hastened to explain, "but I want to do something else than a soft-spoken leading man. I want to get my teeth in a part, do a little heavy work. I've been over to Brooklyn the last few days trying to get their dialect just in case I get a part where I can use it."

Just imagine Herbert Marshall saying: "Dose bums 'r lousy."

Theatre

"Bataan," vivid drama of a gallant group of Americans, waging a last stand battle against Japanese hordes in the Philippines, brings Robert Taylor to the screen in the role of an army sergeant who is leading a group of 13 men in fighting a delaying action to cover the evacuation of the Army from Bataan. The action-packed film is showing at the State tonight and Saturday and stars George Murphy, Desi Arnaz and Thomas Mitchell.

Lupe Velez and Eddie Albert have the leading roles in "Ladies Day" which is featured at the Grand tonight and Saturday, along with "Santa Fe Scouts."

Msgr. Balmat Is Named To Diocese Chancellor

CLEVELAND, July 9. — Bishop Edward F. Hoban has appointed Msgr. Vincent B. Balmat as chancellor of the Cleveland Catholic diocese. He has served for the past five years as vice chancellor to Auxiliary Bishop James A. McFadden, who later this month becomes bishop of the newly-created diocese of Youngstown.

Msgr. Balmat came here 12 years ago as secretary to Bishop McFadden, and fills a position Bishop McFadden held 18 years. Dr. John J. Krol, chaplain of Jennings hall and instructor in Canon law at Our Lady of the Lake seminary, was named the new assistant chancellor.

Overseas Soldiers Save Their Surplus Pay With the Army

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — U. S. soldiers overseas in increasing numbers are depositing surplus pay for the Army to hold until their discharge after the war, the war department says.

Such deposits now total approximately $21,000,000, representing 134,000 individual accounts. About 80 per cent of these are held by soldiers overseas. Accounts are growing at the rate of 10,000 a month.

Deposits can be made in amounts of $5 and over, and 4 per cent interest is paid on accounts more than six months old.

One North African infantry division deposited $687,917 in a month ending Feb. 15. One regiment deposited $255,702 in one week. Soldiers in New Caledonia are heavy participants.

This is only one phase of soldiers' savings. Soldiers are now buying more than $21,000,000 in war bonds monthly. Most soldiers carry national service life insurance. Policies run from $1,000 to $10,000. The average policy has been about $5,000. The monthly premium on $10,000 runs from $4 for an 18-year-old to $8.50 for a 40-year-old.

More than 2,000,000 soldiers are helping their families through family allotments, part of which comes from their pay, while an additional 1,000,000 soldiers are making so-called class E voluntary allotments of pay home.

Rationing Affects Show

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. — The Toepferweins are on the road on their 43rd exhibition tour, visiting 70 service camps, but this year something old has been subtracted—all because of point rationing.

These nationally-known marksmen—Adolph Toepferweins and wife, Elizabeth—used to feature such things as shooting a can of tomatoes full of holes with startling effect. But that has been dispensed with and the wooden block and the old reliable clay target of the trap-shooter are now the favorite props.

The Toepferweins—he's 73 and she's 60—reside at Casa Loma, their 25,000-acre country place at Leon Springs northwest of here, when they're not touring.

Heads Polish Army

According to reports in London, Gen. Kazimierz Sosnowski, above, will fill the post of commander-in-chief of the Polish armed forces left vacant with the death of Gen. Wladislaw Sikorski, killed in a plane crash off Gibraltar. (International)

Soldiers Boost Singer

PASADENA, Cal. — Miss Elaine McCaffrey, a Pasadena singer, credits her flight to Broadway to the Soldiers band at the Huntington hotel. She had been featuring songs with the band which the soldier musicians arranged for her, when one day the soldier pianist told her that if she could be in Los Angeles in 30 minutes she would have an audition with Benny Goodman. She made it, and in another 30 minutes had been signed up by Goodman to sing with his band at their opening at Hotel Astor, New York.

Barn On Mason Farm Was Old Landmark

The barn on the Veterans of Foreign Wars farm, three miles west of Lisbon on the Lincoln highway, which was destroyed by fire Wednesday afternoon, was one of the county's landmarks.

The old Mason farm on which the barn stood was a quarter section of land obtained from the government for a homestead by Charles Mason in 1804.

The old brick house was built in 1826, replacing the original log cabin, and the barn in 1834 to replace log stables. The home remained in the Mason family until about 1924, when the VFW acquired it, expecting eventually to make it a permanent home.

G. P. Mason, Franklin ave., a great-grandson of Charles Mason, is owner of the farm adjoining the original homestead.
James A. Rhodes and Fred Snyder of Salem are treasurer and farm manager, respectively.

Japanese soldiers are issued a ration biscuit made of wheat flour and seaweed, to which vitamins are added.

French traders and missionaries first settled Wisconsin in 1670.

Legion Will Help Find Workers For Canning Factories

The American Legion is on the march again. It's digging in, not in the fields of Flanders, but to help Ohio solve its problem of finding workers to man its canning factories during the late summer and early autumn.

Robert C. Goodwin, of Cleveland, regional director of the War Manpower Commission for an area which includes Ohio, Michigan and Kentucky, today received assurances that members of nearly 600 Legion posts in Ohio will work in the canneries as part of their Food for Freedom campaign of 1943.

Members of Legion Auxiliaries and their children also are ready to take up their canning factory jobs at a moment's notice, Goodwin was informed.

Help Salem Plant

Although no canning factories are operated in this vicinity, the Legion Auxiliary of Columbiana county is expected to offer its services in obtaining help for the Keener dehydrating plant, which may get into production sometime in August.

Martin V. Coffey, department commander of the Legion in Ohio, and J. J. Saslavsky, state adjutant, will issue the instructions to the posts to prepare for the big job.

Franzer Reams of Toledo is chairman of the Legion's national defense committee and will work out details of the plan in cooperation with Earl J. Smith of Columbus, who has been named as the state's Food for Freedom chairman. Placing of the canneries workers will be done through the United States Employment Service offices in Ohio, under the direction of Wade Hammond, state director.

Need 17,000 Workers

"It is estimated that we shall need upwards of 17,000 workers to process Ohio's fruit and vegetable crops this year," Hammond said.

"In the past canning factories have drawn their labor supplies from the ranks of students home from college, from housewives and from many other groups now in the armed services or employed in war industries. This year we must find new sources of labor or we may lose part of our crops."

OPA Approves New Mark-Up Proposal

(By Associated Press) — WASHINGTON, July 9. — The Office of Price Administration, responding to demands for a simplification of food pricing methods, today issued over-all fixed mark-up regulations, under which most groceries will be priced by sellers.

The new regulations become effective Aug. 5.

The result will be: Wholesalers will price most dry groceries under one regulation, instead of a great many. Retailers will have one regulation for almost all dry groceries and perishables except meat. Major grocery store commodities not covered are beer, liquors, candy, bread, milk, ice cream, fresh fish and tobacco.

The regulations supply the fixed mark-ups which wholesalers and retailers will apply to net cost to establish their ceiling prices. OPA said its studies indicated the mark-ups provided would maintain the same general level of prices in effect April 8, the date of President Roosevelt's hold the line order.

The new mark-ups will not apply where community-wide retail dollars and cents ceilings are in effect.

Brainstorms For Victory!

Got Any Good Ideas? Tell Them To The Victory Center

By ARLENE WOLF
AP Features Writer

NEW YORK — Next time you go into a brown study and emerge with a sure-fire war-winning idea, don't sit down and write the President about it. Don't bother communicating with Mrs. Roosevelt, or Paul V. McNutt either. Just tell it to the Victory Center, national clearing house for ideas to lick the Axis.

You don't have to be a genius or a Ph.D. to come forth with a notion that same government agency may find practical. Most of the 1,500 ideas received since the Center was organized last June came from housewives, plumbers, stenographers and businessmen.

There was the street car conductor who suddenly decided that newspapers on the eastern seaboard should print the dim-out time every day. Then he suggested that all prizes offered by publications and radio programs be in bonds instead of cash. Both suggestions were forwarded to the proper agencies, and both were accepted.

Mail from 48 States

Mail from the 48 states comes into Victory Center's office at 745 Fifth Ave., daily. Not all the ideas are practical — one writer was sure we could win the war only if the whole nation prayed every other hour, and another sent a barrage of 30 post cards on why mothers should rule the world.

About ten per cent of the suggestions submitted are forwarded to agencies like the WPB, ODT, OPA, or Treasury Department. About one idea in ten is put into practical application. The group of Columbia university graduates of the class of '17 who organized the Center because they couldn't join the armed forces is satisfied with the batting average, but wants more ideas.

"People are still sending ideas to the wrong places," says Dr. Theodore Abel, head of the Center's evaluating committee. "Everytime they think of something they write the President, or the Department of Agriculture. Washington wants ideas, but it has no facilities for handling carloads. We pre-sort and pre-digest the ideas here, evaluate them, and then transmit them to the right people."

Some of the ideas bear the mark of genius — extract precious copper and rubber from discarded radio aerials; use polaroid glass in airplanes so the crew can see enemy ships against the sun; establish telephone waking-up services for war workers who can't get alarm clocks.

When Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker was found, letters poured in from fishermen who knew just what kind of equipment a life raft should have. Somebody wanted to change the cross in dimmed-out traffic lights to a V.

The notion of taking metal bumpers from automobiles originated at Victory Center, and so did the campaign to supply the Navy with binoculars by promising civilians who loaned them that they would be returned at the end of the war with a suitable inscription.

Got any ideas?

MINE GROUP IDLE IN OUTLAW STRIKE

First Violence Is Reported Today In Southern Pennsylvania Area

PITTSBURGH, July 9.—The first violence was reported today in the strike-bound southwestern Pennsylvania "captive" mine area as roving pickets announced they were starting a 24-hour-a-day vigil at all mines in the Uniontown region to help enforce their "no contract—no work" fight.

Lawrence Blum, 52, of West Brownsville, conductor on a freight train, said he was hit in the head by a piece of slate thrown by one of "about 50 pickets" at the Colonial 3 mine of the H. C. Frick Coke Co., a U. S. Steel Corp. subsidiary.

At Salem City hospital:
A son yesterday to Mr. and Mrs. Miner Reed of Washingtonville.

Firemen In Parade
All auxiliary firemen, requested to march in the American Legion parade Sunday, will assemble at 3 p. m. at city hall. All participants are asked to return hats to the city hall following the parade.

Display Of Flags Sought
The Salem Business Bureau has asked merchants to display the American flag in the downtown district Saturday and Sunday during the American Legion Tenth district convention.

Concert At Church
The public is invited to attend the special program of vocal and instrumental selections at the A. M. E. Zion church at 8:30 tonight.

Camp Opening Set
Camp Merrydale, Girl Scout camp, will open July 12 instead of July 11, Mrs. Anthony Woina said today.

Building Permit
A building permit has been granted by the city to Walter Yarian, 180 Washington ave., for $700 repair to his property at that address.

LEETONIA
The Friendship club held an all day meeting Thursday at the home of Mrs. C. F. Sittler and Mrs. Ella Sittler.
Relatives have been advised of the birth of a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. DeVere Seamans of Youngstown at the Salem City hospital Thursday. Mrs. Seamans is the former Lois Halverstadt.
Miss Cynthia DeLong of Anoka, Minn., accompanied Miss Jean Smith to her home following a visit with Miss Smith's brother, Lieut. and Mrs. Dale T. Smith at Dayton.
Mrs. Joseph Englehardt returned to her home at Buffalo, N. Y., Thursday after a week's visit with her father, William Wagenhouser, and other relatives.

Joseph Driscoll of Great Lakes, Ill., is spending a 10-day furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Driscoll, Sr., west of Leetonia.
Mrs. Thomas Gilby and granddaughter Gale Macinnis of Pittsburgh are visiting friends and relatives.

Stick to the Bitter End
LOS ANGELES, Cal.—Six-year-old Jerry Larrimore, along with his sister Aileen, five, are believed to have established a world record as picture fans. They entered a movie house as soon as it opened in the morning, and were asleep in their seats when the janitor closed for the night. In the meantime they had seen seven features, four new-reels, four government shorts, four cartoons, one pre-view and a stage show.

INDIANS TO PLAY WASHINGTON IN NIGHT ENCOUNTER

Cleveland Turns In 5 to 2 Win Over Senators In Morning Game

(By Associated Press) CLEVELAND, July 9.—Convinced that morning skies smile favorably on the Cleveland Indians, the Tribe front office today promised more early games after a 5 to 2 victory over the Washington Nationals in an initial swing shift venture.

Having defeated the Senators in the series opener at League park yesterday, the Indians return to the floodlights of municipal stadium tonight one game behind the fourth-place easterners.

Vice President Roger Peckinpaugh was well pleased with the paid attendance of 3,691 at the morning attraction.

Allie Reynolds allowed seven hits as Mickey Rocco and Manager Lou Boudreau led the hitting attack with three and two doubles respectively.

The Indians welcomed the return of Pitcher Mel Harder after his two-month absence. Outfielder Frank Deljack, signed only two weeks ago, was released to make room for the veteran right hander who broke his ankle while sliding into second base in a game at St. Louis.

Set Your Own Par, Cox Tells Golfers

Associated Press Features
NEW YORK—Forget the scorecard's perfect figures and set your own par.

That's Wiffy Cox's advice to golfers who want to enjoy their rounds on the links this summer.

"Too many players tear their hair, ruin their disposition and lose all the joy of playing because they worry too much about making pars," says Cox, one-time touring tournament player who recently became professional at the Hempstead Golf Club on Long Island after several years at Congressional club in Washington.

"Those par figures on the card are set for the standard players and 95 per cent of our golfers can't be standouts because they lack ability, and don't have the time to improve whatever ability they do have."

"Every golfer should establish a par of his own to conform with the limits of his own game. He will find that he will have lots more fun and, actually, his game will improve when he stops pressing in his efforts to get a scorecard par," he says.

"Swinging into a golf ball with its hundred different movements is an art in itself. The game requires considerable study and practice. In order to become good, a player has to groove the right swing so he can hit the ball automatically. A good teacher never gives a player too many things to think about, for he knows that a player who thinks too much on the course will forget the most important thing—to swing at the ball. "A golfer owes it to himself to at least learn or be taught the fundamental principles of the game. He should take things in his stride and not try to learn too quickly. Through study and sound thought, he can acquire a swing that suits his height, strength, build and age."

"It is impossible for every player to become a champion or a standout. Some do not have coordination, or muscle sense. Some lack physical ability. Some do not have the necessary time for practice, or the money. Others can't throw off nervousness in competitive play. By not expecting too much of their game, golfers will improve much faster."

Cox suggests golfers should place themselves in one of these four classes:

Group A—70 to 80 shooters, handicaps 1 to 10. Their par should be 76.
Group B—80 to 90 shooters, handicaps 11 to 15. Par 85.
Group C—90 to 100 shooters, handicaps 16 to 20. Par 94.
Group D—100 plus shooters, handicaps 21 to 30. Par 103.

Wiffy says golfers can work out their own pars for each hole to fit their own game, considering the length of the hole, the hazards, topography and wind conditions. Just as an example, Cox took the card of his Hempstead Golf Club and worked out the par figures he believed best suited to the golfers in the four different groups. Here it is and it will give you an idea how to make up your own:

Daring Football Expected

Anything Can Happen In '43, Says Bible

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
AP FEATURE WRITER
AUSTIN, Tex.—There will be no danger of over-coaching in college football next season. So says Dana X. Bible, the veteran University of Texas mentor, who takes the view that the boys will not have much time for athletics and "we certainly will not go through long drills on fundamentals."

"There is a big question as to whether the military groups will have time to take part in inter-collegiate athletics," he said. "If they do have some free time, we certainly should not use all of it in hard grind. We shall have our practices short, snappy and as interesting as possible."

But he thinks the game will have a lot of color. "You can just about expect anything to happen," Bible commented. "In other words, it will be more or less wide open—rather daring."

He also anticipates good attendance at games played in the thickly-populated areas.

"There is plenty of money in circulation and I think these games will be well-attended," he explained. "But there is not going to be the intense interest of other years, and with the people wanting to cooperate in regard to travel and with rationing of gasoline, tires, etc. I don't believe people from a distance will come to the games."

He thinks attendance will hold up at Austin, Houston, Dallas and

Fort Worth but says: "I would imagine places like College Station (where Texas A. and M. is located) and Fayetteville, Ark. (site of the University of Arkansas) would be pretty hard hit."

Bible definitely believes football should be carried on in wartime. "I just don't believe there is any training with the exception of military tactics that prepares a boy more perfectly for the armed forces than a vigorous competitive program," he asserted.

Commenting on the prospective size of squads next fall, he said the schools will get their players from army and navy groups sent back for special courses, from reservists not called to active service, and from boys under the draft age.

An announcement recently from Capt. John J. London, commandant of naval units at the university, indicated that V-12 trainees will be able to participate in football—even on road trips and that leaves may be extended in emergencies or on special conditions.

The southwest conference has passed a rule permitting trainees to participate in intercollegiate athletics.

Damage totalling $400,000 is caused by dogfishes to fishing gear and tackle off Massachusetts each year.

Indiana was discovered by La Salle in 1671.

Austin, Texas, Capital Of Southwest Sports

AUSTIN, Tex.—This city claims to be the sports capital of the Southwest. It appears to have plenty with which to back that up, too.

1. The University of Texas won or tied for every championship in the Southwest conference except track—football, basketball, baseball, swimming, cross-country, fencing, tennis, golf.
2. Austin High school became the first high school in Texas history to win two major championships in one year—football and track. It also finished as runner-up in basketball.

Forgets About Wounds To Land Record Catch

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va.—Private Prudent Bryant, convalescing at Ashford General hospital, took time out to land a seven-pound bass for a record catch in Lakeside lake near the hospital. Bryant, wounded in North Africa, presented the fish to Col. C. M. Beck, Ashford's commanding officer.

SPORT CHATTER

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
NEW YORK, July 9.—The Southern California Public Links Golf association is undertaking an ambitious program this summer with a war workers division, which functions through recreation directors of about 100 war plants, and a junior golf instruction program, which helps to look after the kids whose parents have war jobs....

President Alfred H. Mauer reports that the professionals, including such big-name players as Olin Dutra, Willie Hunter, Joe Novak, Harry Bassler and Stan Kertes, are especially enthusiastic about the junior work....

ONE-MINUTE SPORTS PAGE
As soon as he heard of St. John's "resignation" from the National league All-Star team, old Bobo Newsom phoned Ford Frick to ask for the batting practice assignment. That would have made him the first player to make the All-Star squads in both leagues, but the call was too late and Ace Adams already had been given the job....

Judge Landis' 736-page book, "Baseball," which subs for the old official guides, finally is off the press. At a glance it seems to contain everything except the name of J. G. Taylor Spink.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR
Bob Stedder, Buffalo, (N. Y.) Evening News: "An exhibition game of football in the south Pacific by Marines so confused the natives they persisted in running up and down the sidelines following the ball. The game's still a mystery to many who do likewise in the U. S."

FUTURE BOOK
Phil Terranova, who KO'd Jackie Callura in a non-title bout, will get his shot at Jackie's NBA featherweight title at New Orleans, Aug. 16, according to Manager Bobby Gleason.

SERVICE DEPT.
Dick Hoffman, the old Stanford fullback, has moved up the ladder from private to captain in the Marines in ten months.... Garvey Young, the Marine who beat Sailor Freddie Cochrane, the welterweight champ, in a non-title bout last year, has been transferred from Boston to the southwest Pacific war zone.

BOMBERS DEFEAT GOLD BARS, 2 TO 1
The Bombers beat the Gold Bars 2 to 1 in the only game played at Centennial park Thursday evening.

The other games, one Class A and two Class B, were rained out.

A home run by Bill in the second inning was the deciding factor in the game between the Bombers and the Gold Bars. The Bombers polled their runs in the second and fourth innings, while the Bars managed to cross home plate once in the fifth.

Considers It A Joke
FRESNO, Cal.—Jess Feliz, 70, is still chuckling over the joke he played on some holdup artists. In a bar, he boasted of the fact that he was carrying on his person a $1,000 payroll for a nearby ranch. The holdup men took him outside, beat him up and robbed him. "But the joke is still on the thieves," he declared. "They only got $5 which was all I had on me."

Perroni Is Bankrupt
CLEVELAND, July 9.—A voluntary bankruptcy petition, filed yesterday by Patsy Perroni, former heavyweight boxer, listed $6,781 liabilities and no assets. Perroni, formerly of Canton, is employed as a war plant guard.

35-Year Old Chicago Cub Castoff Wins 1-0 Shutout Against Cincinnati Reds

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

For years baseball's fountain of youth has reposed in Yankee stadium and joining the perennial American league champions has made almost any ordinary ball player into a star, at least temporarily.

Now the Philadelphia Phillies have set up a rival clinic in rejuvenation that is producing just as spectacular results without the scent of a World Series share for a stimulant.

Schoolboy Rowe, St. Johnson, Babe Dahlgren and other veterans have responded to the treatment of Dr. Stanley Raymond Harris this season and the newest Phillies' patient to take the cure successfully is Richard O. (Kewpie) Barrett.

This 35-year-old righthanded pitcher who was cut loose a few days ago by the Chicago Cubs after losing four games without winning one, came up yesterday with a 14-inning shutout against the Cincinnati Reds to win a grueling 1-0 battle for the Phillies after they had been battered 7-5 by a 17-hit assault in the first half of a doubleheader.

The performance was flashy enough to share attention with the one-hit game pitched by Orval Grove of the Chicago White Sox last night as he beat the Yankees 1-0 for his seventh triumph without a defeat this season.

Tigers Beat A's
Grove's spoiler was a double by Joe Gordon batting average .214, but the disappointment of 31,019 Chicago fans was somewhat assuaged by the fact the third-place Sox captured their ninth victory in 11 games. Their run came in the first inning on two singles and an error by John Lindell, who dropped a fly.

The second place Detroit Tigers extended their spurt to ten wins in 12 games by beating the Philadelphia Athletics 3-1 on six-hit hurling by Paul (Dizzy) Trout.

The Cleveland Indians made seven of their nine hits for extra bases and beat the Washington Senators 5-2 in a morning contest with Allie Reynolds scattering seven blows.

The St. Louis Browns rebounded from their losing series with the Yankees to whip the Boston Red Sox 5-2 with Steve Sundra pitching seven hit ball.

In the National league, the Pittsburgh Pirates punished the Brooklyn Dodgers 8-2 for Rip Sewell's 12th victory against two defeats.

AMERICAN BRED by FRANKEN MELONEY

SYNOPSIS
There was no threat of stormy weather when pretty Ann Rivers left her married sister's swank home in Bar Harbor, Maine. But on a lonely road outside Providence, she ran into a sleet storm—and a ditch—from which her car refused to budge. At the Tru-Frend Tourist Bungalow, where she sought help, the brusque young proprietor informs her the telephone is out of order.

CHAPTER TWO
Ann shook with rage. A fresh dame, indeed! She ought to turn her back on him and stalk out of the house. But what would it gain her?
So she smiled upon him. "I don't like you," she informed him pleasantly, "but my car's in the ditch down the road and I need your car to pull me out."
He smiled too.
"That's too bad," he said. "I could get you out in a jiffy. Only I haven't got a car. At least it's not running."

He glanced at her wet shoes. "Look, you better come out to the kitchen and get dry a while, and we'll do something out later on." He didn't wait for her to answer, but guided her with a firm hand toward a dark room beyond. Ann wasn't scared, but at the same time she wasn't quite sure what the next step was going to be.
"Stand still, and I'll turn up the light," her companion instructed.
She stood still. The glare blinded her for a moment and then she saw that she was in the kitchen, and that an old woman was sitting before the table peeling potatoes.

"This young lady's car broke down, Mom."
The old woman's face turned toward Ann, and unseeing eyes stared into distance. She nodded. It was as if she saw Ann, and accepted her. "Better you warm yourself at the fire," she invited. Her speech was rich with the echo of some old-country language, some echo that the son's voice lacked completely. Ann tried to place it. German? Austrian? Swiss?

"My husband and I were born in Alsace-Lorraine. My son was born here."
Ann started. It was as if her mind's question had been read.
"Our name is Freund and this is my son Paul," the old woman continued with the punctilious courtesy of another world. "He is worried, and when he is worried he is sometimes not very polite, but he is a good boy—Come nearer to the fire, my child, you are cold."

Ann moved gratefully toward the warmth. "My name is Ann Rivers," she offered in turn, feeling suddenly new and shy.
"Better take your shoes off," Paul Freund suggested bluntly.
He left the room, returning after a few moments with a man's old camel-hair coat, and a pair of boudoir mules fringed with pink ostrich feathers.

"Here, put these on," he commanded with a gruff, almost reluctant kindness.
Ann held one of the slippers in her hand, some tourist stopping for the night must have left them. But no. They had too recently been near perfume, too recently been worn. As she slipped them on she tried to fit this touch of incongruous femininity in the sturdy, old-fashioned house.
"I have to go back upstairs," Paul broke in on her thoughts. "Mom'll take care of you until the storm let's up." He vanished before she could protest.
She rose restlessly, and went to the window, peering out into the darkness. She could see nothing but a steel gray blur, hear nothing except a steady hissing roar as sleet drove against the windowpanes.

Mrs. Freund moved to the sink with the pan of potatoes. "Better you stay here tonight," she suggested.
"Impossible," Ann was about to reply. "I have to get on to New York." But Mrs. Freund was ahead of her. "Maybe it's important for you to be somewhere? Maybe someone worries about you?" she anticipated gently.

Somebody worrying about her? She wished it were so. What a glorious feeling it would be to have someone worry about her. There was Tom, of course. But Tom wouldn't worry about her. He'd call her apartment, and if she weren't there, he'd call the next day, or rather he'd have his secretary remind him to call. There must be something wonderful about modern business, Ann reflected; it taught men how to put everything into compartments. That was it. She didn't belong in Tom's life, she belonged in one of his compartments, the one he labeled love. He didn't belong in Tom's life, she belonged in one of his compartments, the one he labeled love. He didn't look into it very often, satisfied that she was there, and that, presumably, he held the key to it.

It was a little the same with Helen, who had for years considered Ann in the light of a duty, rather than a younger sister. About once a week, she expected Ann to report her whereabouts, and her prevailing state of being; but inasmuch as they had parted only this morning, after one of those family arguments in which both sides get stiff-lipped and voices grow precise, it was fair to suppose that Helen wouldn't worry if she didn't hear from Ann for a good bit over the allotted lapse of time.

The argument had verged perilously close to open bickering. It had had to do not only with Ann's refusal to marry Tom (of whom Helen most wholeheartedly approved), but Helen had also taken exception to Ann's decision to rid herself of Broadfields to the first feasible buyer. "It passes my comprehension," Helen had said, "how you can bring yourself to sell the farm. It's sacrilege to let it go out of the family. It was our home."

"What you're trying to say," Ann had countered tersely, "is that you wish I'd keep the place because of the sentiment that you have for it. In that case, why don't you and Arthur buy it?"
"That's quite out of the question," Helen's attitude became that of dealing with a 12-year-younger sister, hot-headed and irresponsible. "You must realize," she had explained patiently, "that Arthur and I have established our summers at Bar Harbor for far too many years to change the pattern of our lives now. Besides, Father meant you to have Broadfields as a kind of anchorage, and this impulse to be free of it and take a job in New York is just a whim."
How untrue that was, but how futile to argue the point with Helen. Helen couldn't realize that sometimes you relinquished a thing because you loved it, not because you didn't love it.

Ann had been little more than a baby when her father had bought the farm and moved his family there. His friends had called him a fool to give up his law practice. He had called them fools to keep theirs. In the years that followed, when he had leisure from the labors of raising sheep and breeding horses and growing crops, he wrote articles, elaborating his theories of Constitutional law, and in the pine-paneled study that was library and farm office combined, he had written his biographical studies on the Supreme Court, with his desk piled high with a jumble of legal volumes, breeding records and soil samples. And in that same pine-paneled study, Ann and Helen and two aunts had collected after his death to hear his will.

To Helen he left her mother's jewels and the house in Bar Harbor; a few odds and ends of family furniture to the aunts—and to Ann the farm and a block of income-invested stocks. He left her a letter, also, a very intimate letter, in which he told of his love of the land, his faith in it, and his hope that Broadfields would always insure for her contentment, keen pleasure, and security.
For a while, his hope had come true. And then things began to tumble. The stock which had brought in an income of over two hundred a month dwindled in dividends to fifty; and, along with the debacle, the market for her father's Morgan horses and purebred sheep abruptly vanished. Now it was a struggle to feed livestock when there was scarcely enough money to meet her own small bills at the grocer's. It was heartache, too, to see fields growing back into brush, planting programs neglected, and breeding plans interrupted. But Helen, who was not of the land, could not know an obligation to the land. She could only cling stubbornly to a tradition.
